

For today's CC, you need to design this layout using the Bootstrap Grid System.

In order to make it challenging, you are forbidden to use any of your own custom CSS. This entire layout can be achieved without actually writing any of your own custom style sheets.

For the different background and text colours, use bootstrap utility classes. It is not required to have the exact same colours as above, only that the colours should be visually distinguishable.

The above layout should also be responsive (the layout should snap to a portrait view showed during the lecture).
